

06 September 2006

Two Fijian soldiers killed while serving in the British army but there is still a steady flow of Fijians willing to enlist. The wages and a sense of pride that comes with serving the army appeal to young men who hope to send money back to their families.

Click here to read more.